Walking Tour of the Golub Corporation Headquarters Facility

Tuesday, October 12, 2010

The Albany Section of the Illuminating Engineering Society (IES) wishes to invite you to a site tour of the Golub Corporation Headquarters Facility, which features numerous sustainable design features and anticipates receiving a LEED Gold Certification. The tour will be led by Golub Corporation's Bill Sweet, VP of Engineering Construction. Mr. Sweet should be able to provide insight into the design and construction process, and Golub Corporation's pioneering commitment to Green design in their facilities and stores.

Thoughtful, green design practices were utilized in every step of this design. The new headquarters building is responsibly located within the city of Schenectady, anchoring the neighborhood and utilizing existing infrastructure networks. The facility features 100,464 sf of open office space on 5 floors. Fully automated, the building will yield huge energy savings due to its sophisticated energy management system incorporating automatic shades that raise and lower depending on solar impact as well as micro-turbines to generate electricity among other items. Some highlights of the tour will feature the unique lighting design of the fitness center, café, and office areas. Office lighting utilizes unique auto-dimming lighting at individual work stations. The design team of David Pfund, Elliptipar; Mike O'Hearn, TLC; and Donna Cregin, LightSpec will also be available to answer specific questions regarding the lighting design.

Optional gathering for food, beverages, and carpooling will be at:
Katie O'Byrne's - 121 Wall Street, Schenectady New York.
Please plan to arrive prior to 6:00p if you'd like to carpool.
